With services including high-end boarding, private suites decked with flat screen TV's, day care, grooming, and a dog chauffeur service, the hotel caters to the distinguished dog of Manhattan. for guests, and dog models who mingled through the crowd wearing luxury activewear created by Hec-Lin Designs \(http://www.hec-lin.com\) by Roberto Negrin. Also present was celebrity groomer Ali McLennan \(http://alimclennanpetexpert.com\) from Animal Planet's "Underdog to Wonderdog" who has come on board as the spa's official groomer.

At the launch, film crews and photographers followed guests as they let their pups try out the beds in the luxury suites. Some of the more select suites are larger than New York city apartment bedrooms and are equipped with full-sized human beds, 42 inch flat screen TV's, doggie decor and paintings. Pups were also invited to test out the luxury chauffeur car that offers both pick-up and drop-off services for customers throughout New York City.

The aroma throughout D Pet Hotels Chelsea is very cleansing and holistic, likely the result of their daily use of a dry steam vapor cleaner which uses a chemically free, hypoallergenic and environmentally safe method of sanitation. They also utilize a state of the art air conditioner system that cycles the hotel's air every ten minutes. The indoor dog parks are constantly cleaned by the daycare staff with a high-end veterinary cleanser that kills all diseases known to dogs, and there is a vet on call 24 hours a day to ensure the health of pet guests.

Day care and standard room rates are very reasonably matched at market rates in New York City, with higher rates reserved for the luxury suites, which run $200 a day.
